Dalby Way, Coulby Newham - Middlesbrough - United Kingdom

The first Church of St Mary was built in the oldest part of the town in 1848. Later it was demolished to make way for a larger church (1876-78). With the creation of the Diocese of Middlesbrough in 1878, this became the Cathedral. With the movement of population, the building became redundant in the 1990s. Fire destroyed the building in 2000. Cathedral status has been transferred to a new Cathedral in Coulby Newham in 1986. This fan-shaped Cathedral was conceived by Bishop Harris, the fifth bishop of the Diocese.
